

On the Road from Burns portrays the still unfolding frontier of Central Oregon in sixteen stories spanning almost two centuries, from a settler encountering a brilliant Indian to a woman grappling with her technology-denying fathers end. All set in the three counties of Central Oregon (Deschutes, Crook, and Jefferson) the stories portray a vast area in a variety of settings, characters, and styles. Locations extend from the High Cascades to the rivers below them and on to the sparse eastern desert. We meet lumbermen, scoundrels, cowboys, entrepreneurs, and even aliens who love to ride horses. The styles of the stories range from western adventure to family stories, from moral dilemmas to humorous science fiction.
