

Yank, the Army Weekly was a military publication sold to deployed soldiers during World War II. George Baker, a former Disney animator, was drafted into the army at the beginning of the war. He created The Sad Sack, which was a comic strip depicting a luckless soldier's misadventures in the army. This comic strip was the most popular feature of the magazine, surpassing the popularity of the pin-ups. The Sad Sack appeared in every issue of Yank and eventually became a syndicated comic strip after the war ended. This book contains each Sad Sack comic strip published in the January, February, March, April, May and June 1943 issues of Yank magazine. NOTE: This is Part 1 of The Sad Sack 1943. The 1943 edition was broken into two parts to reduce the file size of this book. This book contains comics from the first half of 1943.
